WEAVER
HIGHSCHOOL
HARTFORD, CONN.

FORE

Because the world is in such dire need of cooperation and peace, we have selected as the theme of the '48 Portal an international peace table. Seated around the table are to be some of the leading powers of the world, each contributing, in its own way, to universal world peace. Scattered throughout the album section are full page drawings, denoting what contributions these countries are making. We intend these drawings to point out how important a part each country, whether small or large, can play in world peace.

In this edition we have employed the old axiom, "A picture is worth a thousand words." We have endeavored to capture numerous highlights at Weaver in the form of pictures. You will see many of your classmates as they attend class, stroll through the hall, or cheer their teams on to victory.

When you turn this page and feast your eyes upon what lies ahead, remember this: All persons, places, facts, and incidents are completely true to form, and none, absolutely none, are coincidental!

So here is your book,
For better or worse;
It's full of the new look,
And that is no curse!
(I'd like to go on,
But I've run out of verse!)

WEAVER HIGH SCHOOL

As we look back on our years at Weaver and recall the pleasures and problems shared with our many friends, the thrill of a Green and White football victory — or the disappointment of a defeat — and the inspiration derived from the patient examples of our teachers, we realize how swiftly these years have slipped by and how much the magnificent edifice that is Weaver has meant to all of us who have passed through her famed portals.

MISS PORTIA E. CLOUGH

Miss Clough was born in Somerville, Mass., where she attended Latin High School. She went to Framingham College where she received her B. A. degree. At college she was elected Class Prophetess. Here at Weaver, besides teaching Home Economics, she is faculty adviser of the Ingleside Club, and, during the war, was in charge of a committee for knitting, both for soldiers and the people overseas.

DEDICATION

Long after this book is printed, all who read this page will recall with pride two fine teachers, Mr. Arthur F. Winslow and Miss Portia E. Clough. Some may have been in their classes, others not, but at some time or other, during their three years at Weaver, all have come in contact with them. Both have won respect and admiration because of their willingness to help and inspire one and all. Who can forget Mr. Winslow's wit, humor, and ceaseless effort, year after year, to aid aspiring public speakers in various oratorical contests and presentations? Many girls, from Miss Clough's classes, leave Weaver better fitted for the future, because of her untiring work on their behalf. With these admirable characteristics in mind we dedicate this, the Portal of 1948, to two outstanding and extremely popular teachers, Mr. Arthur F. Winslow and Miss Portia E. Clough.

MR. ARTHUR F. WINSLOW

Mr. Winslow was born in Hanover, Mass., where he attended Partridge Academy. From Partridge, he went to Boston University for his B. A. and to the University of Maine for his M. A. He next enrolled in Emerson College, where he was classbook business manager, class treasurer, and orator. At Weaver, he is faculty member of the Athletic Council and in charge of such programs as "Junior Town Meeting of the Air." He is an active member of the American Legion and chairman of the Legion's State Oratorical Commission.

MR. FRANK H. BURKE

Because of his deep and personal interest in the students, their activities, and all with which he is associated, Mr. Burke will always be closely linked with the name of Weaver High School. Preferring to manage many cases involving students, their plans, and their headaches, by himself, acting in the position of a guidance supervisor, he has brought students into closer contact with him.

A thing to remember will be his never-ending supply of humorous tales, animated by actions, expression, poise, and sheer delight. This source of wit and wisdom was a true asset to his extemporaneous speeches which were so enjoyable for the audience.

With such a guiding spirit behind the school, others became inspired. We all hope for his health to improve and his happiness to be abundant.

HIGH HOPES FOR FOOTBALL '48!

Miss Katherine R. Goodwin

All of us who have ever come in personal contact with Miss Katherine Goodwin, Dean of Girls, will always remember her wonderful spirit and encouraging faith. She has been sincere, understanding, and as radiant as any person could possibly be in our lives. Her sparkling smile and winning personality have given hope to many a student at Weaver. Her untiring effort and her interest in the Girls' League and its activities have united her even more closely with the student body. In these past two years she has come to know many of us as more than just casual acquaintances. We became friends! We have been very fortunate in having such a wonderful person as dean of girls, and we hope that she will remember the class of '48 as they will remember her.

Portrait of Mr. Burke presented to school in 1947.

Mr. William F. Aitken

"A friend in need, a friend indeed" — that's Mr. Aitken. There is hardly anyone at Weaver who, after having come in contact with him, cannot say that a true friend has indeed been found. In our vice-principal we have an able and willing counselor, one who is ready at all times to listen to students' trying problems and to aid them in every way possible with wise guidance.

In his two short years at Weaver, Mr. Aitken has gained the respect both of the faculty and the student body. His placidness at tense moments, his pleasant smile, his numerous beneficial ideas are slowly becoming more and more embedded within the hearts of all.

May he continue for many years to come, this worthy service to future students of Weaver.

In Memoriam

Miss Elizabeth Craig

Miss Elizabeth Craig was a teacher to whom teaching was not a profession; it was a way of life. Nor did it take us long to perceive that beneath the overawing exterior—the chilling glance, the admonishing word, the queenly bearing—was a great lady devoted to the hundreds of boys and girls whom she had instructed during her twenty-four years at Weaver. Her belief that “honesty is not the best policy; it is the only policy” has inspired many to attempt to lead integral lives.

Even after an accident had forced her to resort to the help of a pair of canes, she continued as a member of the English department. Most of us will carry away in our memories the picture of Miss Craig as, slowly and regally, she made her way through the corridors. For this is the woman who died—in body—sixty-four years old, but who lives—in spirit—sixty-four years young.

FOOTBALL, 1947

With an almost completely different team from "disastrous '46," the Big Green opened up with three highly impressive victories. For the remainder of the season, the team showed champion sportsmanship, though going down to defeat four times running. The season was highlighted by several bright spots. In his first season as line coach, Mr. John McGill turned out some excellent linemen, including Mike Fiorillo, Henry Crouch, and Porky Abbate, who anchored the line of the All-City first team, and Hal Hemme who made the All-

City second team. The backfield was sparked by the running and all-around leadership of Capt. Jackie Morris, who quarterbacked the All-City first team. The passing and running of Al Grody and Hummy DelMastro, both on the All-City second team, will also be long remembered by Weaver football fans. Although the team ended with a three and four record, the spirit of the fans, the antics of the cheerleaders, and the sportsmanship of the team will recall to mind "Football, 1947."

CROSS-COUNTRY

Taking into consideration the pre-season loss, due to injuries, of its two stellar performers, co-captains Walter Blanker and Robert Biederman, the cross-country team did well. Arthur Sillano and Irving Gilbert filled the two top positions respectively on Weaver's team and the harriers went through the season winning one meet, losing four, and taking seventh place at the State Meet. The season was accompanied by a change in coaches, Mr. Steeves relieving Mr. Lund.

BASKETBALL

Although the Weaver quintet came close on several occasions, the '47-'48 season proved very disastrous. In most of the games the Big Green was badly outclassed, but very seldom outfought. The team may have lacked many necessary things, but they rarely were in need of spirit. This spirit was also shown by the students who turned out in large numbers to cheer for their team, win or lose. One reason for the team's bad showing was the loss of Capt. Vin Canali, a consistently good player, after the first game. The Junior Varsity showed some highly promising ball players, who, coupled with returning veterans, should be an improved lot next year. With the hope of better success next season we leave Basketball, '47-'48.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Paced by members of the Girls' Leaders Corps, an active interest was maintained all year in the various branches of athletic activity. After-school programs were organized in basketball, volleyball, speedball, bowling, and baseball. Intramural competition was provided as the girls formed teams and played each other in elimination tournaments until the winner was determined.

In the regular gym classes, a new addition to the program was square and ballroom dancing. A definite asset in this undertaking was the public address system, purchased in a school drive under the sponsorship of the Leaders Corps. This system enabled the music to be heard throughout the gym and the instructions of the physical education director, Miss Whitney, to be audible at all points without any serious ear strain!

With the idea of molding Weaver girls into perfect shape, a program of calisthenics and "slimming down" exercises was given during the winter season, when weather forbade outside sports. More than a few girls were seen limping and painfully walking up the stairs as a result of this "rugged program"!

The Fourth Annual Sport Night was held in the spring, and attracted much attention as the school was forced to take notice of its women athletes, who have become an essential part of the high school activities.

BOYS' INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The fall intramural athletic program, under the efficient direction of Mr. Howard MacMullen, intramural director, got off to a fast start, October 1, with competition in touch football, golf, and cross-country (later dropped from the schedule).

Touch football, enthusiastically welcomed by a large number of boys, was played by 5 senior-junior and 7 sophomore teams. Val Leniart's Navy of the senior-junior loop beat Ray Zonghetti's thirds to seize the championship of the school. Although the competition was stiff and many a fellow was seen limping in the corridors of Weaver as a result of the games, good sportsmanship was always prevalent.

With 42 golf clubs swinging and the same number of balls flying every which way, the competition was halted for the turf-pounding golf "pros" before the completion of the agenda, because of conditions at Keney Park.

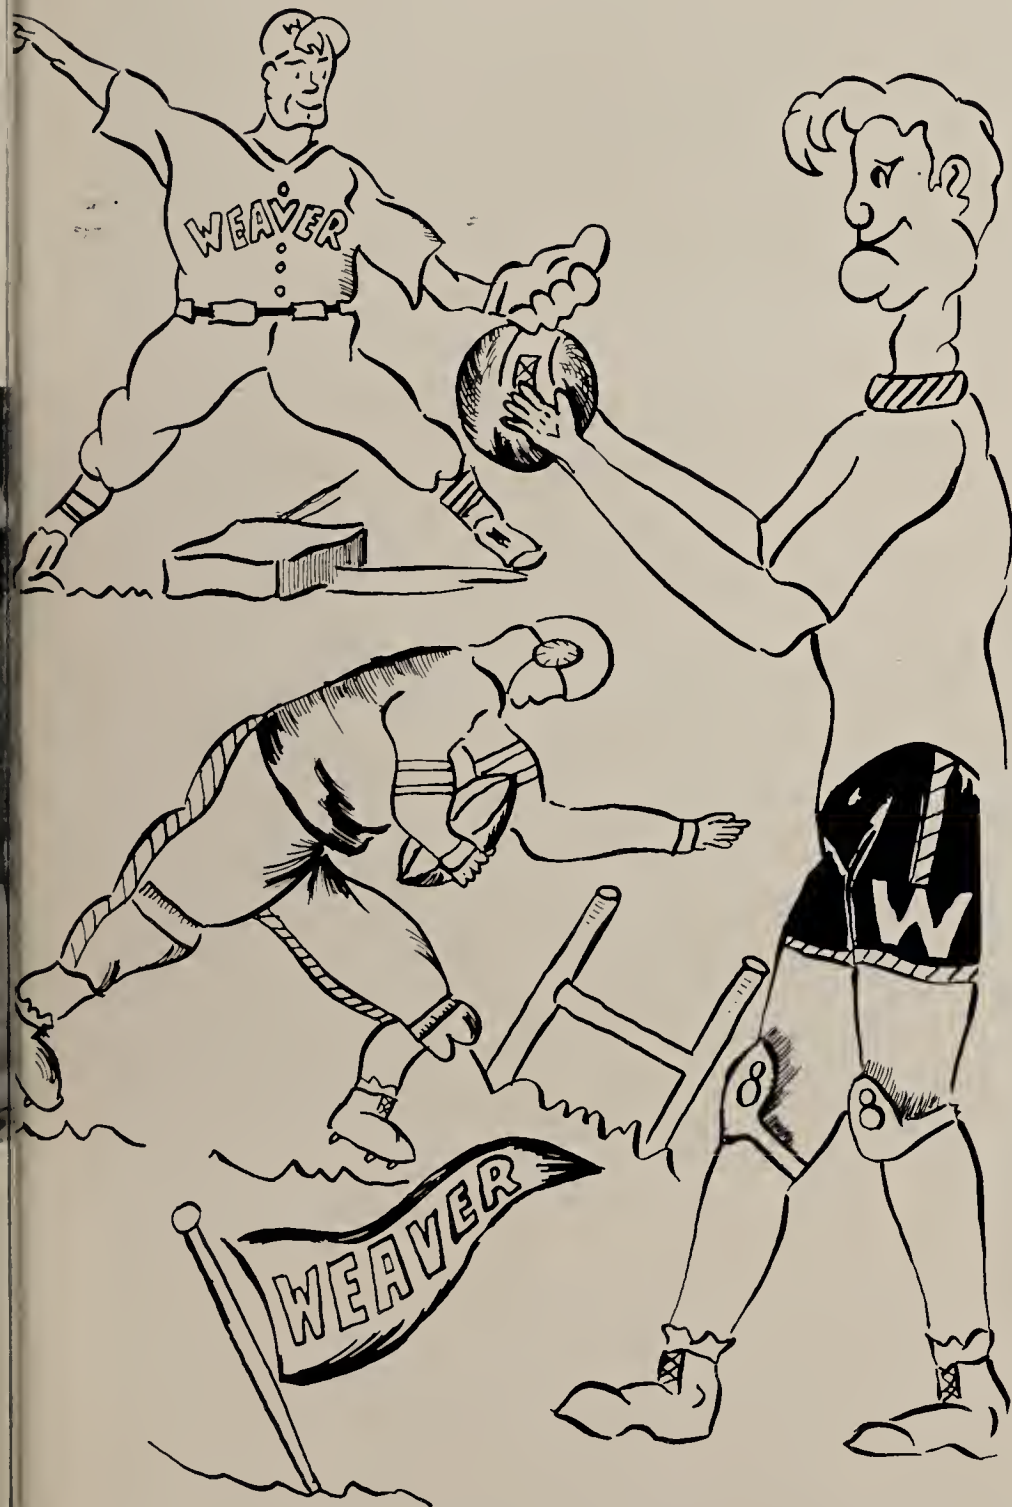

With the fall intramural sports a thing of the past and the black and blue marks incurred thereof partly healed, a large turnout for intramural basketball was recorded. The after-school hoopers split into senior-junior and sophomore combines. With some outstanding ball handling by both individuals and teams as a whole, the ever popular basketball games evidenced rugged competition before the champs were crowned. As a sideline to basketball, Mr. Coyle, well known instructor and referee, in co-ordination with Mr. MacMullen, gave a few Weaver Beavers the fundamentals of basketball officiating.

Seniors included in this group were Art Zonghetti, Don Richman, Irv Gilbert and Arnold Hamburg, who incidentally did a good job when he was called upon to referee the Weaver-Manchester Jayvees' game.

Volleyball came next on the winter intramural agenda with softball, handball, tennis, and a track meet planned for spring activities.

A point system has been devised by which the male population of Beavertown is rated and put on one of four clubs. The intramural activities are regulated by an Intramural Board, directed by Mr. MacMullen and consisting of Art Zonghetti, Bill MacDonald, Fee Callan, Vic Macres, and Ed DeMino. The three individuals having the highest total of points and the Intramural President will receive a varsity letter with IM on it.

If you happened to be around the gym Tuesday or Thursday activities period and observed little men coming down the ropes head first, walking across the parallel bars on their hands, or doing summer-saults in mid-air, (Eek! Did that fellow almost fall off the rings? No, he just did a simple cut off!) you have seen the Boys' Leaders Corps in action. Under the leadership of Mr. MacMullen, the Boys' Leaders Corps, the only one of its kind in "these parts", is just another phase of intramural activities, started in this school when we, by some chance of fate, were lowly thirds (in case you don't remember, so-phomores!).

WITHIN THESE

Library—Here is the favorite haunt of those in 6th period study. A good book or magazine and we could relax in a quiet peaceful period. Only a dreamer could think up something like this! !

Chem Lab—This is the room responsible for the "rotten eggs" on the third floor. Now we know why they stick poor Sophomores in homerooms on this "testing ground" for weaklings. Oh, for a clothespin! ! !

Home Ec—Here is the room in which future housewives get their "basic training." Who knows? The clothes outside this room may someday be hanging in the closets of the world's best-dressed women.

PORTALS . . .

Gym—Sweet music, soft lights; or the roar of the crowd and hoarse voices; these and many more are the fond memories of the Weaver Gym. Plus the waiting line, with excuses, to our own Mr. Mac.

Auditorium—Remember the football rallies, Weaver Night, and Evie Fennelly's voice? Of course we all enjoyed Mr. Burke's after an assembly, "I send you now to your first period." !

Elevator—Remember the dumb Soph who bought tickets to ride? Now we know that this door opens only to a favored few. How longingly we looked when we had to travel from Rm. 300 to lunch! !

Swinging—Take a good look—here is the bugaboo of all poor, unsuspecting Sophs. How many times have we picked up our books, and sometimes ourselves, after "bumping into" them! !

POOR CHESTER

HISTORY OF WEAVER'S GREATEST CLASS

This is Station WHS, broadcasting from Weaverville and bringing you tonight as a special feature Gabriel Winchell with the inside story of that notorious gang, the Class of 1948. This program is sponsored by Beaver-Brite, the toothpaste for sheared beavers only. Now a word from our sponsor.

"If——"

Thank you. Now on to Gabriel Winchell contorting news while it isn't news.

"BEFORE THE SLAUGHTER"!

Dat-da-da-dat! ! ! September, 1945—The Class of 1948, first peace class to enter Weaver after 4 years of total war, dedicates itself to international cooperation and security.

Principal Frank H. Burke, in the first "B" assembly of the year, urges gratitude for peace and impresses the lowly Thirds with the importance of a high school education. He explains the high ideals the Sophomores should live up to in Weaver High School. He expresses special pride for the naming of the "U. S. S. Alex Diachenko," in honor of a Weaver alumnus killed in action while serving his country.

EYES ON YOUR WORK, ELEANOR

Contending for first place on the Weaverville "Hit Parade" are two tunes by Joe Senior: "Come Susie Slater and Ride the Elevator," and "The Gym Is On the Ceiling of the Basement, Third Floor".

Reporter's Report from the Cafeteria! Chester, Weaver's faithful chicken who, every Monday morning for 20 years, has been made to run through a pot of boiling water (chicken soup to you!) died recently when the temperature reached 213° F. Does your soup taste different lately? Also heard from this fabulous dining room of the exclusive Beaver Club are these choice words of sorrow, "Sob, Sob! No stools! Where am I gonna sit?" Biology teachers, how about an anatomy lesson, hmm?

REMEMBER THE SEASON OF 48?

Ah, yes, there's good news tonight. Weaver welcomes two new members to the faculty — Miss Fortunata Faranda, and Mr. Howard MacMullen (more popularly known as "Mr. Mac").

Attention Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beaver and all the cars on Mountain Road! Weaver goes over the top in its Bond Drive for $45,000 to raise money for hospital units. Friend "Ipse" sadly moans, "O where, O where has Mr. Brockway gone?" Why, he's only recalling Weaver Night, 1945.

Exclusive! Beaver eleven rips through a ragged Hartford High team by the phenomenal score of 58 - 6 in the annual "Turkey Day" classic. This win climaxes the most successful season in the history of Weaver. The Big Green emerged undefeated in 6 games, winning the city and district championships. Mr. Mac inaugurates the first Boys' Leaders Corp, featuring Francis Sponzo and his bulging biceps.

Peeking out of Santa's bag at the Goodwill Formal, my spies report a towering Christmas tree, surrounded by busy Beavers.

Christmas, 1945 — Weaverites trade in the "3 R's" for the "3V's" — vacation, "vittles," and "vimmen". For the New Year Beavers resolve not to resolve anything!

Weaver welcomes back Major Margaret Fraser and Sergeant Elvira Lord, both of whom served in the W. A. C. My spies also report that the cipher line has grown. Could it be the boys lining up for one last look at Miss Mary Hogan? Reports from the Girls' League have it that "In Step at Weaver" has outsold "F. A."

REMEMBER THE CORN?

WE WON — THIS ONE!

Weaver students bow their heads in lasting tribute to Walter Donald Pfund, known to his friends as "Donnie," who died after a long illness, on March 6, 1946.

Theme marks in the male section of Mr. Owen's English classes have taken a drop since the arrival of student teacher Miss Mae Rivkin. Happy retirement to Mr. William Hall, Miss Mildred Small, Mr. Joshua Robins, and Miss Faith H. Talcott. In the Second Annual Sports Night the glorious Green overpowers the battling Blue in the contests of the fairer sex.

This winds up Part I of tonight's special newscast. Be back in a flash with some more of this trash after a message from our sponsor, Beaver-Brite, the toothpaste for sheared beavers only.

JUNIOR YEAR

For sheer delight use Beaver-Brite,
To keep your tooth both pure and white.

Dat-da-da-da-dat!!! Hello, anybody, here's Winchell. Flash! 99 44/100% of those sorry Sophs have become jabbering Juniors.

September, 1946 — How're you gonna keep 'em down to their work after they've seen the sea.

Beavers are now unloading their troubles on the manly shoulders of Mr. William F. Aitken, Weaver's new vice-principal. Miss Katherine R. Goodwon is new Dean of Girls — which indicates that it takes two to replace a Talcott!

THEY USE BEAVER-BRITE!

SPRING FEVER TAKES ITS TOLL

The Fire Squad has reorganized under the direction of Principal Burke. When you see breathless boys running around or directing traffic during a fire drill, you'll know why they don't get a cipher.

The Honorable William Harvey Edwards III, Weaver's atomic brain, speaks at the student forum on atomic energy at the U. N. in New York. The class average will take a shattering drop when this young man of the mountains returns to his native Kentucky, at the end of the first semester.

Exclusive! "Grandpa" Burke proudly boasts of the addition of a new member to the Burke clan. The question of the hour — Will the teaching profession claim a new victim? Tune in in 20 years for the answer.

The man-power shortage in Weaver is improving. Latest additions to the faculty are Messrs. John Shea, William Thompson, Walter Aschenbach, and Weston Brockway (at long last — can Weaver Night use him!).

MI-MI-MI

"MISTER" OWEN

Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, Staff Anthropologist of the New York Bureau of Inter-cultural Education (whew!), points out the foolishness of unfounded race prejudice.

The great controversy over what the "M" in M. Nelson Owen signifies is in full swing. My expert opinion is "Mister".

The following pause is in reverent memory of Weaver's practically incomparable gridiron achievement (?) !

Juniors experience the first advantage of being upper classmen as they see Junior Town Meeting of the Air in action at an "A" assembly.

To perpetuate the memory of a former Weaver instructor, Lt. Roger F. Woodbury, the Hartford Men Teachers' Club announces the establishment of a fund to aid prospective male teachers.

The Portrait Committee, originated in 1943, has presented the long-awaited painting of Principal Frank H. Burke to the school. The presentation was made by Vice-Principal Aitken at an assembly.

Walking backwards so they would think him going out, your reporter gained entrance to the Weaver Fair, and having no prize bull to exhibit, watched the others throwing it around. The Beaver Barker, Jerry Reid, held his "straight" face while the audience held its sides.

Flash! Disease sweeps Weaverville! ! ! Beavers victimized right and left with Spring Fever. Symptoms: late for class, sleeping during class as well as in study halls, and leaving books at home.

1947, April 18. Junior Prom — Royalty honors gala ball with its most gracious presence as King Billy MacDonald and Queen Pat Losty march to their thrones midst the cheers of their clamoring courtiers. The ceremony was accomplished by many royal blushes.

"SOUTH OF THE BORDER"

"A PRETTY GIRL"

Miss Faith H. Talcott paid a return visit to the old homestead to attend the Junior-Faculty Tea. This reporter very nimbly swiped some sandwiches from the tasty dishes — in the kitchen.

The good neighbor policy is getting better. Maria-Cristina Beltranena (ooh! my aching tonsils!), a little lady "a la Latin" who spoke and sang at the Pan-American Assembly, is one neighbor boy Beavers would like to negotiate with.

At the final big event of the year, the Honor Society Assembly, Dean Albert Holland delivered an enlightening speech, "A Faith Unshaken".

That finishes Part II of this special program, brought to you by Beaver-Brite, the toothpaste for sheared beavers only. I'll be back (don't think you're through with me yet), after a word from our sponsor.

SENIOR YEAR

For a smile like a queen

Use that toothpaste that's green — Beaver-Brite.

Dat-da-da-dat! ! ! This is Gabriel blowing his horn to announce the entrance of the high and mighty seniors.

Weaver students returned to school minus their ever-smiling friend George Widem, who died in a drowning accident during the summer.

Returning from their trips abroad, Miss Katherine Goodwin, Miss Lillian Mansfield, and Miss Nina Hartin report that Europe is still going strong, but "It ain't what it usta be"! Newest members of the faculty family are Miss Agnes Gorse, Miss Dorothy Pickard, Mr. John McGill, and Mr. Frank Steeves.

Weaver Beavers travel to the U. N. to test the wood in "Veto" Vishinsky's head and end up testing the "oomph" of a certain blonde switchboard operator. Best part of the excursion, in the estimation of those interviewed, was the journey home — "Love on an Arrow Line bus!" Not to be outdone by the rest of the world, Weaverville will open its own branch of the U. N. Senior delegates will be William Cooper—Latvia, Claudia Tudan—Rumania, Valeria Sciullo—Italy, John Spanier—England, David Ciesla and Elliot Leff—Poland, Ruth Frosh—Austria, and Cita Droemer—Sumatra. First thing on the agenda—vetoing the demerit system.

SPERLING! — HOW COME?

"ON WITH THE DANCE"!

"MOOSE"

Chemist Kenneth Lind gives the shirt off his back to science to prove that an "Arrow" will not stand the acid test.

The "Weaver Nightmare" gets a good round of horse laughs. One of the year's most beautiful ballads, "Where Are You Now?" by Weaverville's Mr. Weston H. Brockway, was rendered by Jeanne Miller (the front end of the horse!).

Weaver loses one of its outstanding and gifted teachers with the unfortunate passing of Miss Elizabeth H. Craig.

The football season opened this year, with a bang, and ended with a slight pop! During the first three battles, the Beaver eleven emerged victorious; during the next four, it just emerged. This, however, marks an improvement of three games over last year's unblemished record! The team was rewarded for its fine spirit and sportsmanship with a turkey dinner. As "Charlie" would say — "Mmm, cheerleaders — some waitresses!"

I have a retraction to make. In Part II of tonight's broadcast, I stated that the record of the '46 football team was incomparable. Well, in view of the '47-'48 basketball season, it appears that the Beaver boys have accomplished the perfect season again — perfect 0. Alas, their pre-game prayers went unanswered.

If, during one of those rare silences in the lunchroom, you should hear the romantic crunching of many industrious inmates, it is not the busy (?) Beaver brains at work; it is only the termites.

Many a gym Juliet, hanging over the balcony on that Friday, December 12, wondered why the art classes were hanging the laundry from the ceiling. Most of them were led to believe that the decorations for the Goodwill Formal were all wet.

Mr. "Mac" has started a new intramural system, led by its President, Art Zonghetti. Now all sports will be opened to every Beaver boy.

Added to the list of Weaver "big shots" — David Neiditz, "Lookout" editor; Macey Katz, "Portal" editor; Anita Pelletier, Girls' League President — is Vincent Canali, newly elected President of the Senior Class.

The annual Senior - Sophomore Party was featured by snappy Seniors trying to show simple sophs the way around.

Now we come to the case of the Missing Soup Pots. Defective detective "Ipse" has uncovered the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Weaver's fabulous soup cauldrons. They were found on the third floor, catching the drips from above!

Nightly weather forecast — two feet of snow will fall tonight, and since the snow plows are in such wonderful condition this year, little Beavers will slosh to school tomorrow. As sons of taxpayers, we demand that the street department go on strike!

"Feudin' and Fussin' and Fightin' " the theme song of the "Lookout" and the "Portal", has been buried this year, along with the hatchet which has scalped many a potential flowery head. The two rival editors shook hands, with only one rotten egg involved.

IT SURELY CAME IN HANDY

Have you walked through the annex lately? Don't — you'll need boots. Also, if you should find white flakes on your shoulders, while wading down that way, it's not dandruff — it's the peeling ceiling.

Predictions of things to come—! I predict that the opera, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin", will be held and that all the rodents will follow Alex Sicilia. I predict that there will be food at the Senior Banquet and that the demand for Alka-Seltzer will boost sales 100%. I predict that the Senior Class of 1948 will be present at Class Night and that many a teacher will have a red face.

I predict that on a Saturday night there will be music and dancing in the Weaver gym and that many droopy-eyed Beavers will straggle home in the early hours Sunday morning. May the Senior Reception climax a happy school career for all!

On a lovely June night, at the Bushnell "Court House", "Judge" Frank H. Burke will hand down his decision in the case of The Thomas Snell Weaver High School vs. The Class of 1948. The defendants will be found guilty as charged and sentenced to graduate as soon as possible.

This ends my special news cast tonight. So, with a mouthful of Beaver-Brite, I remain your Weaverville correspondent, Gabriel Winchell, who leaves you with this thought: If you want success in life, remember — "A Beaver can build a dam site quicker".

CLUBS

Now as we stand at the portals of Weaver and look into the world before us, we take a fleeting glance backward and sigh, "those were the days". We realize that in "those days", together with our studies, our teachers, our tests, and our marks, there were other things. There were our clubs! Those before-and-after-school activities that not only taught us many useful lessons and provided us with good times but also enabled us to gain many wonderful friends, friends we shall never forget!

Guided by capable and understanding advisers, each club succeeded in giving its members a memory they will cherish. To these advisers, we of the graduating class owe much. The time they spent with us, the little things they accomplished without recognition, and the examples which they set before us will always linger in our memories as days well spent and friendships well worth making and keeping.

LOOKOUT EDITORIAL BOARD

As we look back over "our clubs", we might say, "Remember—?"

The Girls' League—the dances it sponsored, Mr. Burke's birthday, and the impressive torch ceremonies.

Also the Glee Club and Choir—their inspiring concerts.

The Band—the Green and White marching down the field — our brass section!

The Orchestra—Mr. Green's quips!

The Lookout—every Wednesday — eagerly turning to the Scoop — the tears and grins of the frustrated staff!

The Art-Crafts Club—all the little extra decorating they did — Miss Haselton.

The Record Club—almost the largest single club.

Biology Clubs—field trips and fun!

C. H. L. S.—those thrilling discussions!

French Club—translating fast enough to know what is going on!

Girls' Business Club—initiations and scrap-books.

Girls' Leaders Corps—dazzling white uniforms and cute figures.

Honor Society—the pride and honor of being in such an organization.

Boys' Leaders Corps—the stunts and their emblems!

Camera Club—learning dark room techniques!

Ingleside Club—home "ec" plus.
